COMPANY HISTORY

Vending Solutions started with little more than an idea but with sound knowledge of the vending industry. Graeme Keshwar CEO of Vending Solutions started his vending career during his student years in the USA working for a Pepsi bottler, filling vending machines. This is where he first recognised the potential in the vending industry, and in particular, the demand for vending machines in the corporate and industrial sectors.

After many years working for a leading South African vending company as National Sales Manager, and with the advent of democracy in 1994, Graeme started Vending Solutions as one of the very first black owned vending companies within South Africa. This initiative paid off with the company showing tremendous growth ever since.

Today Vending Solutions operates nationally from its head office in Johannesburg, and has established itself as the largest black owned vending machine business in South Africa. We have extensive experience, sound business skills and a high level of service excellence. By embracing technology and the constant training of its people, Vending Solutions has established itself as an industry leader.

MANAGEMENT TEAM AND STAFF

A committed management team, whose ability to provide consistent quality service to customers, is founded on technical and managerial skills, backed up by an accumulative 40 years' experience in the vending industry. Vending Solutions also realises the importance of adequately qualified and trained staff and firmly believes in re-investing in its employees. This policy is realised in the regularly organised in-house skills-transference programs as well as training by recognised associations. In this way, Vending Solutions applies the experience and wisdom of a growing company through talented people to provide investors and customers with quality vending machine products and impeccable service.

COMMITMENT TO BEE

Vending Solutions is 100% black owned, with a BEE rating of LEVEL 1 with 125% contribution. Vending Solutions' commitment to broad-based Economic Empowerment this is reflected in ownership, management and staff complement, who provide the motivated backbone of the operation and service to our clients.
